Met with David Keaney, Senate Foreign Relations Committee staff, and provided him two more country studies in the Law of the Sea series (USSR and Ghana). Keaney assured me that all the studies are being kept in the Capitol office and treated as Top Secret material, and that Senators are not permitted to take the material from the room. Keaney, who is the House Counsel for Law of the Sea matters, said the series is absolutely the finest thing out on the subject and that Senator Clifford P. Case (R., N.J.) has made special use of the material. If the need arises, Keaney prepares a summary of the studies using the same classification for the background of the Senators in meeting their responsibilities.
